EFI Global and Unified join forces

Solidifies the company's position as a premier global consulting firm in engineering, fire investigation, environmental health and safety, and specialty services

I am happy to share the news that, after careful brand analysis and feedback from clients and business leaders, Sedgwick is combining the EFI Global and Unified Investigations & Sciences divisions to now operate under the brand name EFI Global.

The EFI Global brand is ubiquitous in the market and has a revered industry position on multiple continents. Under the EFI Global name, we will continue to provide the forensic investigation, engineering and environmental services our clients need, delivered by the same experts on whom they already depend. Together, within a unified structure and single brand, we now bring greater resources in more places to clients in a wide variety of industries.

As we move through the details of this transition, our focus is on our clients. You will begin to see a new logo on communications, invoices and other materials, but our dedicated colleague teams and trusted technology remain in place to provide you with the exceptional support you have come to expect from us.

I also want to introduce Jeremy Mele who has been named EFI Global's president of combined operations, reporting to me. Our teams of skilled and experienced professionals and technical specialists are ready to support the company's next chapter of growth.

More details about today's news can be found in our press release, available here. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact either Jeremy or myself. Thank you for your continued partnership.

Best regards,

Steve Powell
Executive Vice President of Specialty Services, Sedgwick
