

Sedgwick announces senior leadership changes to focus on UK and international growth strategy

LONDON, 2 October 2019 – Sedgwick, a leading global provider of technology-enabled risk, benefits and integrated business solutions, today made several changes to the company’s senior leadership team in the UK to support the ongoing success of its UK operations and international growth strategy.

Stewart Steel, currently CEO of Sedgwick UK, Middle East & Africa, has been selected to oversee a newly combined operating division as CEO of Continental Europe, Middle East & Africa (CEMEA).

“I am delighted to announce Stewart’s new role following his success in leading and integrating our UK company since our businesses came together in April of last year. Given his experience developing European claims operations over the past 15 years, I am confident Stewart will bring significant value in his new position as Sedgwick looks to grow our presence in this important region,” said Ian Mures, Sedgwick CEO of international operations.

In addition to his new role, Steel will also continue to support the UK business through a new position of chairman of Sedgwick UK and continuing to evolve client relationships.

Paul White, currently deputy CEO of Sedgwick UK, has been promoted to lead the business as CEO of Sedgwick UK. “Paul is ideally suited to lead and drive the Sedgwick UK business to the next level, building on the integration successfully completed over the last 18 months. Paul’s 32 years of experience and industry knowledge will be massively beneficial as we strive for excellence in this market,” added Mures.

In addition, Neil Gibson, currently managing director of home claims & liability claim services of Sedgwick UK, has been appointed COO, Sedgwick UK. Gibson is a seasoned veteran with 30 years’ experience in the insurance industry. In his 14 years spent with Sedgwick, he has overseen a wide range of disciplines including major and complex loss, property, forensic advisory services and liability, and most recently, he has headed up home claims services.

“The UK clients will continue to benefit from the complimentary skills, experience and market reputations of Paul, Stewart and Neil as well as the unrivalled management capability across all business lines,” Mures stated. “These appointments will further strengthen our high performing UK and European leadership teams as we focus on our strategic growth to support our clients and customers.”
