

Sedgwick strengthens international operations with key leadership appointments

LONDON, 25 July 2019 – Sedgwick, a leading global provider of technology-enabled risk, benefits and integrated business solutions, has appointed key executives to support the ongoing success of its international growth strategy.

Ian V. Muress, Sedgwick CEO of international operations said these appointments enhance the company's high-performing executive management team and will continue to drive the growth of Sedgwick's international business.

Paul White, who most recently served as chief operating officer for Sedgwick in the UK, has been promoted to deputy CEO. In this position, White will play a larger role in managing and developing the UK business, while continuing to support Stewart Steel, Sedgwick CEO in the UK. "Paul is a great asset to our operations and all the business we do in the UK," Steel said.

Jessica Reimers has joined Sedgwick as chief operating officer for Europe. Reimers has more than 25 years of experience in the insurance and claims business, where she has led the development and implementation of international projects focused on digitalization, organizational culture and innovation. Her extensive European insurance management experience makes her an excellent addition to the international leadership team, Muress said.

In addition, Stephen Raper has been named finance director for Europe, the Middle East and Africa and will be responsible for setting strategic direction and managing cross-cultural teams to optimise operational efficiencies and create a culture of profitable growth for Sedgwick's international business. He previously held similar roles at other global loss adjusting companies and for an international engineering consultancy in Dubai and Singapore.

"I offer my congratulations to Paul on his new role and am pleased to welcome Jessica and Stephen to Sedgwick's outstanding international leadership team," Muress said. "Together, we will continue to develop our global business and build strong relationships with existing and future clients. Sedgwick is well positioned for sustained growth, and I am excited for our future."
